The fact that a tevenue cutter, in a time of war, was employed to carry instructions, does not change her organic character. In this view of the question, the officers and crews of the revenue cutter service, no matter where or when employed, are not entitled to land bounty under the act of March 3, 1855.

LAST WORDS OF NICHOLAS ABOUT THE UNITED STATES, EXCLAND AND FRANCE .- The New Orleans Hee publishes the following passage from a letter, addressed to an eminent foreigner, now in that city, by a Russian friend, residing in St. Petersburg. The Bee says, it may be 'regarded as entirely authentic.'

St. PETERSBURG, Peb. 1855 .- Bafore my letter reaches you, you will probably have received in-telligence of a loss that will probably spread a gloomy vell over all Russia; for the death of such a gloony veil over all Russia; for the death of such a man is a blow that not only strikes his own country, but resounds from the shores of the whole world. In my last letter I did not dare openly to declare what we were expecting from day to day, for we were unwilling to accustom our hearts to an idea which our minds were incapable of conceiving. The last days of the Czar are a whole century in the history of Russia, and will never be forgotten by those who witnessed them. It o not important the contrary importantly, like a prophet. Quite the contraty! Impartially, like a prophet, he gozed upon the present situation of the different European powers, and predicted the future with the accuracy of one who looks far beyond the Present.

*England,' said he, 'has reached her culminating point either for life or death. There is no middle point for her to pursue. One thing alone may save her, and that is a free confession, not only by the government, but by the whole aristoctry, made to the people, that they have been absurd, from first to fast, that the Grown is unable any longer to maintain its power, and that the people must rise and onlie together as one man, to save the honor and preserve the independence of the country. A candid acknowledgment of the of the country. A candid acknowledgment of the truth may even now save England, if her corrupt stistocracy can be brought to the stool of confes anistocracy can be brought to the stool of confes-sion. France, on the contrary, can maintain her-self only by false-nood and deception. The Em-peter may proclaim to his subjects that he governs and influences the affairs of all Europe, that not a shot can be fired without his premission, and that France is the first power in Europe; but a single shock, one speech of a demagogue may overthrow him and darken the star of Napoleon overthrow him and darken the star of Napoleon foliever. I have offered my hand, the hand of reconciliation, and he refused it. He wishes to average Moscow upon me, and St. Helena upon England. Shott-sighted man, who seeks to avenge the sins of the fathers upon the childrens. As for Germany, Austria, and Pruss's, they would not now exist, if I had not saved them, when they crouched at my feet are years ago; they think to aircugate the meselves in the mighty struggle between the other nations of Europe. But they never have been and never will be more than scoolar er have been and never will be more than secondary powers, satraps holding authority by the clement of my flouse, or by permission of the Western Powers. Yet one consolation is left to me in the midst of all this ingratitude and villiany, and that is the silent sympathy of that high-hearted people on the other side of the Atlantic, the only hearts in which I hear an ecto of my striggle against united Europe. Never have I forgotten the smallest kindness shown to me by the least of my subjects; let my children never forget what we owe to America; and if ever an bour of den-

These words may be of interest to you, my friend, because you are now living amongst the Americans; and I mention them, knowing that your sympathies have bound you to a foreign land nearly half a century. One learns to recognise his true friends in the hour of danger, and you may rely upon it, that as long as a Romanoff sits on Russia's throne, the American States will severneed a friend.

We are led to refer to this subject, and to refet briefly to its importance, from an inspection of the samples of paper manufactured by Mr. S. R. Andrew, of Chambly, from a plant commonly known as Cudweed of Life-Everlasting, "Gnapthalium Polycephalum." From an inspection of this plant without experiment, we can hardly doubt but that it will fulfil alt the conditions required. It grows in this province in almost unlimited quantities, and is found in the Northern States, as well as in various localities upon the continent of Europe. When of full growth it is from one to two ft, high, bearing a white flower. The stalk, which has but little woody material, is covered with white fibre, similar to the finest cotton. The texture is long and very strong. The interior of the stalk is also filled with the same tough fiber, and it is discovered even in the porce of the leaves and throughout ed even in the pores of the leaves and throughout appearance and all the interest of a regular race.

It is difficult, it not impossible, to estimate the advantages in a moral, political, and social view which would acctue to the whole civilized world from the discovery of such a desideratum as a cheap and abundant supply of material for paper. We certainly consider the discovery of Mr. Andres as worthy of profound consideration and exami-nation. The revenue laws of the United States gives the right to import certain liquors and wines, and on the payment of the specified duties, such as 100 pet cent. ad referem on brandies, and 40 per cent on wines, to sell them for consumption in the United States. The mere act of importation does not compet the payment of duties. The liquors and wines may be bonded for re-exportation to some other country, or to await a better market here. But the payment of duties, on taking the original packages out of bond or from the ship, is, in one sense, the purchase of the right for a valuble consideration paid into the public treasury, to sell them within the United States.

Singular Peature in Lunacy

A writer in Chuich's lizatre, gives us some interesting facts and remarks concerning the unfortunste in a lonatio asylum:

"There are seasons when most of the patients—specially those whose linatic attacks are only intermittent—are dreadfully weary of their confinement and would get away if they could. And why do they not set away? How is it, that half a dozen attendants are able to control a hundred men, four fifths of whom, perhaps, are physically three of clothes into rags.

The inventive skill of the country is now actively engaged in devising means to supply this want. THE THEATER.—The first suppression of the theatre in England was by the Long Parliament in 1612, when the actors were forcibly dispersed and became even some of the most persecuted objects of the government. The destruction of the theatre was the result of an ancient quariel between the Punitanic party and the dramatic corps. The Puritans, starting from the plainest principles of simplicity, had come to the conclusion that the stage was a means of increasing immorality, and numerous works had been written pievious to the year we have named to prove this statement. The stage at that period offered a fair chance for their attacks, for the licentiousness and grossness of many of the comedies was notorious and undeniable. The putitions did not succeed in making their suppression a permanent affair, yet it must be con fessed they purified the stage, and made it more as curious and interesting. Rigid Walters.—Speed in composition is a questionable advantage. Poetic history record two names which may represent the swift and thoughtful pen—Lope de Vega and Milton. We see one pouring out verses more rapidly than a secretary could write them; the other building up in the watches of the dark, a few majestic lines one leaving his treasures to be easily compressed into a single volume; the other to be spread abun-dantly over forty-six quartos; one gained fifteen pounds; the other a hundred thousand ducats; one sitting at the door of his house, when the sun shone, in a coarse coat of gray cloth, and visited only by admitting strangers from foreign countries; the other followed by crowds wherever he appeared, while even the children shouted after him with delight. > SHERIDAN AND HIS SON TON .- Sheridan had a great distaste for anything like metaphysical dis-cussions, whereas Tom had taken a liking for them. Tom one day tried to discuss with his father the doctrine of necessity. 'Pray, my good father,' said he, 'did you ever do anything in a state of perfect indifference—without motive, I mean, of some kind or other?' Sheridan, who saw what was coming, and by no means relishing such subjects, even from Tom, or any one else, said: 'Yes, certainly!' 'Indeed!' 'Yes, indeed.' 'What, total indifference—total, entire, thorough indiffercan do with—mind—total, entire, thorough immer-ence! My dest father, tell me what it is that you can do with—mind—total, entire, thorough jindif-ference?' 'Why, listen to you Tom!' said Sheri-dan. This rebuff, as Tom told me, so disconcertdan. This rebuff, as Tom told me, so disconcerted him, that he has never forgotten it, nor had he ever again troubled his father with any of his met-aphysics .- Moore's Memories .

THE WEIGHT OF A TON .- Judge Grier, of the U. S. District Court. In an action to recover for coal furnished a steamer. The judge said a company of grocers might as well meet and agree to reduce the number of ounces in a bound, and make the smaller number the standard of a pound for their customers, as for coal desiers to agree that the weight of a ton shall be 2,000 lbs. His decision conflicts with a decision of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, which decided a case in Pittsburgh a few menths ago, that according to the laws of Penn-sylvania a ton weight was 2,000 lbs.
